Uhh, that would be Special Agent [redacted]. It's a continuous exam, although unfortunately it looks like they are not giving it again until September of next year. The bulletin for Special Agent Trainee is attached. I'll help you fill out the Form STD 678.

Dear [redacted],

Next year's FAFSA® form just launched—it's time to reapply for the Pell Grant.

If you want to apply for the Pell Grant again for next year, you need to renew your FAFSA form. Several states and schools have first-come, first-served financial aid programs that can run out of money quickly. Don't miss out on financial aid—submit your FAFSA form as soon as possible!

START THE FAFSA FORM

*Remember to use your FSA ID when starting the FAFSA form. This will speed up the process and help you avoid common mistakes. Don't have an FSA ID? Learn more and create your FSA ID now.

- The 2019–20 FAFSA® form launched on Oct. 1, 2018. Complete your FAFSA form as soon as possible to maximize the amount of financial aid you may receive.

- The 2019–20 FAFSA® form requires 2017 tax information. This makes it easy to complete your FAFSA form! Since you have already filed your 2017 taxes, you can electronically import your tax information directly into the FAFSA form. If you're eligible, this is the fastest, most accurate way to input your tax return information into the FAFSA form, and it may reduce the amount of paperwork required by your school.

What happens if I wait to fill out the FAFSA® form?

You could miss out on money for college. Some states and schools have limited financial aid to offer, and some types of aid are awarded on a first-come, first-served basis. Fill out the FAFSA form right now if you want to get as much financial aid as possible! (Even if your deadlines aren't for a while.)

If I fill out the FAFSA® form now, will I have to update it after I file 2018 taxes?

No. For your 2019–20 FAFSA form, you provide ONLY 2017 tax information. You do NOT provide 2018 tax information, even after you've filed 2018 taxes.

What if my family's income has changed since 2017? Can we report our 2018 tax info instead?

No. You do not have the option to report your 2018 information on your FAFSA form. We understand that for some families, 2017 income information may not accurately reflect your current financial situation. If you have experienced a change in income since the 2017 tax year, complete the FAFSA form with your 2017 info, and then contact the financial aid office at your school to explain and document the change in income. Your school has the ability to review your situation and may consider making adjustments to your FAFSA information.

Will I be able to use the IRS Data Retrieval Tool (IRS DRT) to transfer my tax information into the FAFSA® form?

Yes, as long as you're eligible, you'll be able to use the IRS DRT to transfer your tax information into the 2019–20 FAFSA form. Please note: For your security, your tax return information will not be displayed when you use the IRS DRT. Instead, you'll see "Transferred from the IRS" in the appropriate fields.

To start the FAFSA form, go to fafsa.gov from your desktop or mobile device.

New! You can also complete and submit the FAFSA form using the new myStudentAid app. Select the appropriate app store icon below to get started.

Thank you,
